Do Earthquake Forecasts Really Work?

Can we forecast random events? The topic has fascinated gamblers and others for centuries.

Mathematical probability analysis enables us to predict the likelihood that a certain event will occur sometime in a certain span of time. For example, we can predict that there is a high probability that it will rain in San Leandro on at least one day between October 1 and June 1. We can break that down into smaller increments of time (all of November, for example, or all of May), each with its own (smaller) probability.

These probabilities are based on years of weather records, and every day the "normal" amount of rain for the current month and year is printed in the newspaper.

But can we reliably predict that it will rain on, say, February 12? No. We can predict how likely it is to rain on that day, but that is not a prediction.

Earthquake "prediction" is similar to weather prediction, in that there is plenty of data on what has happened in the past, so we can find patterns and make attempts at prediction. For example, we know that the Hayward fault produces a large (magnitude 6.7 or greater) earthquake on average every 140 years, and the last time that happened was 158 years ago. Current estimates put the probability of that happening before 2045 at 72%; for a major quake (7.0 or greater) it's 20%; for 7.5 or more it's 20%, and for 8.0 or more it's 4%.
But will any of these happen today, or this week, or this month? Nobody knows.

VIEU 新闻
地震预报真的有效吗？

我们能预测随机事件吗？几个世纪以来，这个话题一直吸引着赌徒和其他人的兴趣。

数学上的概率分析使我们能够预测某件事情在某段时间内发生的可能性。例如，我们可以预测：在 10 月 1 日至次年 6 月 1 日之间，圣利安卓至少有一天会下雨的概率很高。我们还可以把这一时间段细分为更小的时间区间（例如整个 11 月或整个 5 月），每个区间都有其自身（更小的）概率。

这些概率是基于多年的天气记录得出的，每天报纸上都会刊登当月及当年的“正常”降雨量。

但我们能可靠地预测它会在某个具体日期——比如 2 月 12 日——下雨吗？不能。我们可以预测那天可能下雨的概率，但这并不是预测。

地震“预测”和天气预报有些相似，因为我们有大量过去发生事件的数据，可以从中找出规律并尝试进行预测。比如，我们知道海沃德断层平均每 140 年会发生一次大型地震（震级 6.7 或以上），而上一次发生已经是 158 年前的事了。当前估计认为：在 2045 年之前再次发生的概率为 72%；发生重大地震（7.0 或以上）的概率为 20%；达到 7.5 级或以上的概率为 20%；达到 8.0 级或以上的概率为 4%。

但这些地震会在今天、这周、还是这个月发生？没人知道。

或更大的概率也是 20%；达到 8.0 或更大的概率为 4%。

但这些会在今天、这周或这个月发生吗？没人知道。

MBRA

Mission Bay Residents Association

The Mission Bay Residents Association (MBRA) held a community meeting on November 15, 2025 that addressed critical issues such as food insecurity, safety gaps, and the push toward greater community resilience. The meeting was led by MBRA's Deborah Acosta and Cheryl Noldon, was attended by community residents, alongside San Leandro City Council member Fred Simon and Mission Bay's Safety Captain, Peter Cleaveland who addressed safety issues in the community.

Mission Bay Residents Association Meeting Recap

Rising Grocery Prices and Food Insecurity

Residents in the Mission Bay Mobile Home Park are experiencing increased grocery prices, leading some to quietly skip meals. Many are unaware of available senior food programs, and feelings of stress, isolation, and embarrassment prevent them from seeking help.

Proposed Solutions:

1. Reliable Directory: Create a comprehensive list of food resources available for seniors.
2. Sharing Extras: Encourage neighbors to share surplus food.
3. Communication Circle: Establish a network for open communication and support.
4. Collaborative Network: Build connections to ensure everyone gets the help they need.

Current Safety Gaps

There is a lack of an effective evacuation plan with the city of San Leandro or Mission Bay Park management. Mobility, hearing, medical, and language barriers further complicate access to support, and many residents are unaware of where to seek help.

What Can Be Built:

1. Emergency Alerts: Develop clear, translated alerts using both text and voice.
2. Help Teams: Identify residents trained to assist during emergencies.
3. Clubhouse Hub: Use the clubhouse as a communication center.
4. Shared Resources: Collaborate within the San Leandro resilience hub network.

Joining the San Leandro Resilience Hub Network

The San Leandro Resilience Hub Network is a community-driven initiative designed to strengthen local neighborhoods by creating safe, reliable centers that serve residents year-round and during emergencies. By joining this network, Mission Bay can address several community needs:

1. Reliable Food Resources: Access support through established channels.
2. Improved Communication: Foster strong connections between MBRA, San Leandro city, and park management.
3. Clubhouse as a Hub: Develop it into a center for communication, senior services, and as a heating and cooling center.

Conclusion

Working together, Mission Bay can create a community that supports its residents through challenges and build a safer, more connected environment for everyone.

Mission Bay Residents Association (MBRA) Advocating for Senior Safety and Resilience

The Mission Bay Residents Association (MBRA) is a dedicated 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization focused on enhancing the safety and resilience of seniors living in the Mission Bay Mobile Home Park.

Our Mission

MBRA is committed to ensuring that every senior resident has access to essential resources and services, fostering a supportive and secure community environment.

Key Areas of Advocacy

- Senior Safety: We prioritize creating effective safety plans, focusing on emergency preparedness and tailored communication strategies.
- Food Security: MBRA works tirelessly to address food insecurity by raising awareness and connecting residents with available resources and support networks.
- Community Resilience: Through partnerships with local networks like the San Leandro Resilience Hub, MBRA fosters collaboration to enhance the quality of life for all seniors.

Ongoing Initiatives

Initiative 1: Resident Action Arm

This initiative aims to build a strong and supportive community structure through:

- Food and Resource Organizing: Developing reliable systems for distributing food and resources to residents in need.
- Board and Governance: Establishing effective leadership and engagement within the community to guide progress and development.
- Grant Funding and Partnerships: Securing funding and building partnerships to support long-term projects and sustainability.
- Long-Term Resilience Hub: Creating a dedicated space that serves as a center for community collaboration and resilience planning.

Initiative 2: San Leandro Rent Stabilization (MRSO) Campaign Arm

This initiative focuses on driving policy change through:

- Mobilehome Rent Ordinance: Advocating for fair rent practices and protections for mobile home residents.
- City Council Advocacy: Engaging with local government to influence policies and support the community's needs.
- Coalition of Mobile Home Parks: Building a united front with other mobile home parks to strengthen the impact of advocacy efforts.

These initiatives are essential to enhancing the quality of life for Mission Bay residents, ensuring stability, and promoting resilience within the community. MBRA invites all members to participate and support these efforts for positive change.

Join Us

MBRA invites all community members to participate in building a safer, more resilient environment for our seniors. Together, we can make a difference.

SAN LEANDRO

FLEX RIDES

YOUR COMMUNITY CONNECTION · SU CONEXIÓN COMUNITARIA · 您的社區連繫服務

San Leandro offers transportation services for seniors over the age of 50 and people with disabilities who reside within San Leandro city limits through the FLEX RIDES program. The program consists of two flexible transportation options, FLEX RIDES Shuttle service and FLEX RIDES On Demand concierge service.

FLEX RIDES Shuttle
FLEX Shuttle is a fixed route service which consists of a series of shuttle stops at popular locations throughout the City of San Leandro and offers unlimited, free rides to FLEX Members.

Available to San Leandro residents who are:
- 50 years or older, OR
- 18 years or older and East Bay Paratransit-certified

FLEX RIDES On Demand
FLEX RIDES On Demand provides a low cost, fast and convenient travel option through subsidized UBER rides for members who need to travel to specific locations or locations outside of San Leandro.

Available to San Leandro residents who are:
- Registered FLEX Shuttle members, AND
- 70 years or older, OR
- 18 years or older and East Bay Paratransit-certified

The San Leandro FLEX Rides program operates two shuttle loops: the Orange Route and the Blue Route. The Orange Route primarily serves Marina Square, Kaiser, Marina Faire, Broadmoor Plaza, Walmart, and San Leandro BART, while the Blue Route covers Estabrook Place, the Main Library, Safeway (Bancroft Ave.), Carlton Senior Living/City Hall, Downtown Plaza, Walmart, and San Leandro BART.

The San Leandro FLEX Rides program is fully accessible to people using wheelchairs, walkers, or other mobility aids. The shuttles are ADA-compliant and designed to serve seniors and individuals with disabilities.

🟠 Orange Route (North Loop)

Key stops include:

- Senior Community Center
- Marina Square
- Kaiser
- Marina Faire
- Bermuda Ave./Aurora Dr.
- Aurora Dr. & Fairway Dr.
- Walmart (Davis St.)
- San Leandro BART
- Downtown Plaza (Village Square)

This route is designed to connect residents to major shopping centers, healthcare facilities, and transit hubs like BART.

🔵 Blue Route (South Loop)

Key stops include:

- Senior Community Center
- Estabrook Place
- Main Library

- Safeway (Bancroft Ave.)
- Broadmoor Plaza
- Carlton Senior Living / City Hall
- Downtown Plaza (Village Square)
- Walmart (Davis St.)
- San Leandro BART

This route emphasizes community services, grocery access, and civic destinations.

🚌 The Orange Route is sometimes referred to as the “North Loop” because it primarily serves destinations in the northern part of San Leandro, such as Marina Square, Kaiser, Marina Faire, Walmart (Davis St.), the Senior Community Center, and San Leandro BART.

- The Blue Route is often called the “South Loop”, since it covers places like Safeway (Bancroft Ave.), Broadmoor Plaza, Main Library, Carlton Senior Living/City Hall, Downtown Plaza, Walmart, and San Leandro BART.

How does it work?

A senior living at Mission Bay Park would use the Blue Route to reach Safeway on Bancroft Ave., and the Orange Route to reach Kaiser or the Senior Community Center. Both routes share the same Mission Bay Park stop, so the rider simply waits there for whichever shuttle loop they need.

Example Scenarios

- Trip to Safeway: Wait at Mission Bay Park → board the Blue Route → arrive at Safeway (Bancroft Ave.).
- Trip to Kaiser: Wait at Mission Bay Park → board the Orange Route → arrive at Kaiser.
- Trip to Senior Community Center: Same as Kaiser — take the Orange Route.

🟢 How It Works at Mission Bay Park

- Mission Bay Park is a designated stop on both the Orange and Blue FLEX Rides shuttle loops. The shuttle stops near the office and duck pond.
- Blue Route (South Loop): This is the one to take for Safeway (Bancroft Ave.), Broadmoor Plaza, Main Library, and other civic/shopping destinations.
- Orange Route (North Loop): This is the one to take for Kaiser Permanente, Marina Square, Marina Faire, and the Senior Community Center.

So from Mission Bay Park, the rider can choose either route depending on their destination — no need to change stops

Timing: Both routes run on a fixed schedule, looping through their stops approximately every 30 minutes.

Cost: Rides are free for enrolled FLEX members (seniors 50+ or adults with East Bay Paratransit certification).

Convenience: Since Mission Bay Park is served by both loops, it's a central pickup point for seniors who want access to groceries, healthcare, or community services without needing multiple transfers.

Returning Home: Simply wait at the location where you were dropped off heading back toward Mission Bay Park.

Limitations: The shuttle does not go to all places you may want to go to. For example, it does not go to a bank, post office or Safeway on Washington Ave: To reach these places, riders would need to use FLEX On-Demand (Uber subsidy program) or other transportation options, since the shuttle doesn't serve it.
