Money Saving Tips for Seniors

DEVELOP A MEAL PLAN

So many people throw away food worth thousands of dollars. Planning for your meals can get you out of this situation and help you save lots of money. Developing a meal plan doesn't have to be difficult. It is just deciding on what you are going to eat for the rest of the week. Getting things ready by shopping in time and preparing all the ingredients you need to prepare your meals. Having a meal plan in place will help you make good use of the ingredients and ensure that no food goes to waste. Take note of what is left in the kitchen, put together recipes for meals that use similar ingredients, and come up with your grocery list. You can always check on blogs and websites that help in developing meal plans. You can never fall short of resources to help you achieve your goals. As a senior, you need to do everything you can, even if it means utilizing all the resources you can find to save money and avoid facing financial constraints. Did you know that nowadays your groceries and all the items you need can be delivered to your place? This helps you save on money, especially after retiring.

What Can We Do About Flooding?

by Peter Cleaveland

As the climate changes the sea level is rising. We have heard this innumerable times, but most of us thought it would happen some time in the future — nothing to worry about in our lifetimes. What we perhaps did not expect was Mission Bay flooding because of rain, even though the severity of the storms may or may not be the result of climate change. While this particular incident seems to have been caused by a drainage problem, we still wonder what will happen in the future. If they fix the drains, we should be OK, right?

Not so fast. What will we do in the next few years, as rain-caused flooding becomes more severe? The news has been full of information on how to pack a go bag — a backpack or duffel with items we will need if told to evacuate.

It is unlikely that we will need to evacuate. We are fortunate that all the houses in Mission Bay are at least three feet above the ground, so it's unlikely that water will reach them, but other things could be damaged. If, like most people, you keep your emergency kit in your shed, you should make sure it's on a shelf, not sitting on the floor where water could get to it.

Since we're always concerned about earthquakes, we might ask the question, can changes in the weather, or climate change, lead to earthquakes? The answer, according to the US Geological Survey, is "not really." The biggest effect of wetness or drought seems to be on so-called micro-quakes — those tiny quakes that are so small they can be detected only with sensitive instruments. Those happen all the time, but we don't feel them.

This is being written in early January, just before an expected series of big storms. If something happens we'll talk about it next month.

園區內志願者應急組織(VIEU)信息

當洪水氾濫時我們能做些什麼？

隨著氣候變化，海平面正在上升。 我們聽過無數次這樣的話，但我們中的大多數人都認為它也許會在未來遙遠的某個時候發生，因此在我們有生之年無須擔心。 我們可能沒有預料到的是 Mission Bay 因降雨而氾濫，儘管風暴的強度可能是，也可能不是氣候變化的結果。 雖然這次特殊事件似乎是由排水問題所引起的，但我們仍然想知道未來會發生什麼。 如果他們修好了下水道，我們應該沒事，對吧？

別那麼快下判斷。 未來幾年，隨著雨水氾濫越來越嚴重，我們該怎麼辦？ 新聞中充滿了關於如何整理及準備一個緊急背包或行李袋，裡面應該裝著我們在被告知要撤離時所需要的物品。

幸運的是Mission Bay 的所有房屋都高出地面至少三呎，洪水氾濫不太可能到達屋內。我們不太可能因此而需要撤離，但放在地面的其他東西則可能會受損壞。如果您像大多數人一樣，將應急包放在屋外的棚舍裡，請確保將其放在架子上，而不是放在容易浸水的地面上。

由於我們一直關注地震，我們可能會問這樣一個問題，天氣變化或氣候變化會導致地震嗎？ 根據美國地質調查局的說法，答案是“並非如此”。 潮濕或乾旱的最大影響似乎只是那些小到只有靈敏儀器才能檢測到所謂的微震。 這些微震一直在發生，只是我們感覺不到而已。

這期專欄是在寫在預期一系列大風暴雨來臨之前的一月上旬。 如果期間有什麼事情發生，我們將在下個月專欄討論。

Mission Bay Residents Association (MBRA)

Here are our 2022/2023 Projects and their status as of February 9:

Decision on Rent Increase to Repair Back Wall: After the hearing on November 16 in which both BSM and the Mission Bay Leadership testified, a final decision was going to be announced in 30 days. As of this writing, the decision has not been announced. MBRA has stayed in touch with the City regarding when the decision will be made and they have reassured us that as soon as they know the decision, they will pass it onto all of the residents in our Park.

MBRA Bylaws Rewrite: The 1972 Bylaws were reviewed and rewritten by the Bylaws Committee. They will be published for members of the community to comment on and ratify. Once they are ratified the MBRA Elections process will begin and elections will be scheduled. Because an election committee must be formed and election procedures must be followed (finding candidates, asking volunteers to set up polls, etc.), elections will probably not be held until November 2023.

Reinstating Nonprofit Status of MBRA: The former Mission Bay Mobilehome Owners Assoc (MBHOA) has been successfully dissolved by the Franchise Tax Board (FTB). The paperwork needed to dissolve the former MBRA has also been submitted to the FTB. Once the Secretary of State gives us the final approval for that dissolution we will then file for non-profit status under the correct category. This will let us open a bank account and accept donations as tax-deductible items.

Community Directory: An update to the Directory will be started in March 2023.

Activities Calendar in Clubhouse: A calendar was created and posted in the clubhouse showing the Park activities.

Resident Survey: The survey was completed at the end of January. The next step is to analyze the results and determine how it will be used going forward.

Lighting Project: A new project is starting to research outdoor motion sensor solar or battery powered outdoor lighting, the cost, installation, city funding, etc. so that we can make it available to our neighbors who would like to add lighting to their residence.

Modifications to the Rent Control Ordinance: After a thorough review of the Rent Control Ordinance passed in 2019, MBRA found several loopholes and omissions in it. Our MBRA President has compiled a list of additions and corrections that should be made and sent it to the Community Development and Housing and City Council members. There is ongoing communication with our President and City Staff about keeping this project a high priority.

The MBRA Board meets at 10:am on the first Saturday of every month. Community Members are encouraged to attend these monthly meetings. For more information, please email us at MBHOASL@Gmail.com or look online at NextDoor.com/Mission Bay.

Ways to Celebrate St. Patrick's Day by San Diego Family

Originating in Ireland, St. Patrick's Day was spent at church and with family on March 17, celebrating the teachings of Christianity. When the Irish emigrated to the United States and Canada, the festivities evolved to the wearing o' the green, watching parades and eating corned beef and cabbage. Countries around the world celebrate St. Patrick's Day, proving you don't have to be Irish to enjoy their holiday. Here are 10 fun ways to celebrate St. Patrick's Day with your family.

Grow a Leprechaun. Decorate a terra cotta pot with a Leprechaun face. Fill the pot with soil and add shamrock seeds. Place the pot in a sunny place and watch the "hair" of your Leprechaun grow.

Watch Irish movies together. Try "The Secret of Roan Inish", "The Magical Legend of the Leprechauns" or "The Luck of the Irish."

Live a greener life. Use this "green" month to increase your efforts to help the environment. Conserve water by taking shorter showers, save energy by shutting off electronics when not in use and walk instead of drive when possible.

Wear green. Of course, March 17 can't come and go without you donning at least one piece of green clothing. Whether you're trying to avoid being pinched or want an excuse to wear your green pleather pants, consider embracing the colorful tradition, even with a simple green accessory. Be sure to check out our St. Patrick's Day outfit ideas for cute green ensembles you can rock for the holiday.

Make Irish Soda Bread. Almost every family in Ireland has its own recipe for this delicious bread, hand-written on a slip of floury paper, or tucked away in an old cookbook. While its ingredients may be simple, soda bread is an Irish tradition that has led the country through some of its darkest times. It's also a symbol of celebration, baked in droves in the lead up to Saint Patrick's Day. Try a traditional recipe below.

Incorporate a green vegetable into your dinner plan each night. Try broccoli, Brussels sprouts, peas, spinach, asparagus, cucumbers and green beans. Leprechauns love everything green and will be a good way to increase nutrients in your diet.

Serve an Irish meal. You'll find tons of delicious Irish-inspired recipes out there to make your celebration even more authentic, like a traditional beef stew infused with two cups of Guinness or corned beef and cabbage with a mustard glaze.

A little authentic Irish Soda Bread history:

Here are a few interesting facts about Irish Soda Bread with buttermilk.

- The cross that is slashed into the dough before baking was made to ward off devils and protect the house. It also helps the center of the bread bake all the way through.
- During the mid-1800s, the Irish were making so much soda bread that baking soda almost doubled in price.
- Soda bread was served as an inexpensive way to put bread on the table. At the time, widespread famine meant bread had to be made out of the most basic and cheapest ingredients available.

TRADITIONAL IRISH SODA BREAD

PREP TIME	COOK TIME	TOTAL TIME
10 mins	35 mins	50 mins

Traditional Irish Soda Bread - this Irish Soda Bread recipe only requires 4 ingredients, flour, buttermilk, salt, and of course, baking soda. It doesn't use yeast so it's simple to make!

INGREDIENTS

4 cups alll-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups cold buttermilk

Servings: 1 loaf (6-8 servings)
Calories: 364 kcal
Author: Malinda Linnebur

INSTRUCTIONS

Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Line a baking sheet with parchment paper or grease well; set aside. You can also use an 8" cake pan or oven proof skillet.

In a large bowl whisk together the flour, baking soda, and salt. Stir in the buttermilk just until combined and it starts to become too stiff to stir. Transfer to work surface and with floured hands lightly knead the dough 5-10 times or until all the flour is moistened and the dough comes together.

Form dough into an 8" round. Place on prepared pan and with a very sharp knife cut a 1/4" deep X on the top. Bake for 30-35 minutes or until golden brown and it sounds hollow when tapped on the bottom.

Your March Home Checklist

The first official day of spring is March 20. So whether there's still snow on the ground or flowers in bloom, you can rest assured that nicer weather is on its way. Usher in the new season with a bit of spring cleaning, some fresh flowers and — if you can get outdoors — a little dirt under your fingernails.

1. Remove winter layers. Feeling a bit stifled under a pile of thick duvets? Swap out heavy winter bedding for lighter-weight quilts and coverlets. Also consider changing deep-pile rugs for flat-weave or natural-fiber versions for the warmer months.

2. Clean up patio furniture. Outdoor furniture can get really grimy over the winter, so be sure to give everything a good scrubbing before you start using it for the season. Launder washable outdoor cushion covers and replace worn-out pieces if needed.

3. Clean slipcovers and soft furnishings. Smaller slipcovers and washable rugs can be laundered at home; drop off larger pieces with professionals. When laundering items at home, be sure to read the instructions carefully and err on the side of caution. Most items such as curtains and slipcovers can be put back while damp — for the best fit and to prevent wrinkles.

4. Dust high corners and baseboards. Using a vacuum attachment or the duster of your choice, remove dust and cobwebs from those high and low spots we often miss during routine cleaning.

5. Get ready for tax time. Tax-filing deadline isn't until April 15, but getting your ducks in a row this month will make things a lot less stressful. Sort through paperwork, update your files and gather all important documents in one place so you're ready to go.

MARCH HEALTH TIPS

And if the motivation you had at the beginning of the year to eat healthier is starting to slip, this is the perfect time to refocus your efforts. Start by following a few of these easy-to-implement nutrition tips.

1-Minute Tip: Start your morning with lemon water. Try a warm glass of water with fresh-squeezed lemon juice first thing in the morning. After a long night of sleeping with no hydration, a glass of warm lemon water can help rehydrate the body and help flush the digestive system. There is evidence that lemon water can help give your liver -- which works very hard during sleep -- a natural flush while also providing the body with some vitamin C and potassium.

5-Minute Tip: Consider what foods you already have. Before making your grocery list, check what foods you already have in your fridge or pantry. This is not only a good way to save money, but will also ensure that you're not wasting food that you already have. If what you have on hand are healthy choices – make a plan to include some of those items in your meal prep for the week.

15-Minute Tip: Find a registered dietitian nutritionist. One of the key messages for this year's National Nutrition Month is that consulting with a nutritionist can help you construct a personalized eating plan and help you better understand the benefits of healthy eating.

30-Minute Tip: Do a "meal prep" before the week begins. Planning and preparing key meals and snacks before you start the week is a great way to avoid hunger and poor, last-minute eating choices. It may sound overwhelming, but taking some time on a Sunday afternoon to plan and pre-package meals with proper portion sizes can do wonders.

March Gardening Tips

This is a great time to get out in the garden. There's much to plant — from a grand finale of cool-season flowers and vegetables (such as escarole, shown) to an early show from summer heat lovers.

Get ready to plant. Prepare flower and vegetable beds by adding at least 2 or 3 inches of organic matter, along with a complete fertilizer, and dig it all in to a depth of 10 inches or so. For big shrubs and trees, take the time to dig a substantial planting hole — at least several inches wider and deeper than the plant's root ball. Do advance work to make sure the soil is moist enough. For hard, dryish soil that's tough to work, start by digging as deep as you can and fill the hole with water, let it soak in and then refill it; repeat this over a couple of days until you can push your spade to the desired depth.

Last chance for cool-season performers. In cooler coastal climates, there's still time to put in winter-spring performers: annual flowers such as pansies, Iceland poppies, stock and violas; and vegetables such as lettuce (quick-maturing varieties), spinach and other cool-season crops.

Finish bare-root planting. Early in the month, you can still plant bare-root roses, fruit trees, berries and such.

Start planting warm-weather flowers and vegetables. In inland climates where the weather heats up early, especially in Southern California, plant marigolds, petunias, lobelia and other warm-weather annuals. Also set out or sow seeds of beans, squash and other summer crops; you can plant tomatoes if the danger of frost has passed. Closer to the coast or the San Francisco Bay, wait until warmer weather in April for most heat lovers.

Start drought-resistant perennials. While the weather is still relatively cool, it's a good time to set out penstemon, artemisia, catmint (nepeta), sage, coreopsis and other perennials that need little water; they can establish themselves before hot weather.

Feeding time. Scatter, sprinkle or spray all-purpose food for shrubs, trees and ground covers — ideally before the main surge of spring growth. Feed roses after pruning. Feed camellias after bloom.

Watch for pests. Aphids are fond of succulent new growth. Start with gentle methods such as washing them off with a blast of water from the hose. As a next step, move on to organically based sprays.
