CHAPTER 518
J O I N U S

The Golden State Manufactured-Home Owners League (GSMOL) is a non-profit organization formed almost 60 years ago to protect the home values and quality of life of Mobile Home owners. In addition to working with the State of California and local legislatures, GSMOL works daily at the State level lobbying for legislation that will benefit Mobile Home owners. Through our Emergency Legal Fund (ELF), GSMOL pursues violations of the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL798…) which protects Mobile Home owners.

To help GSMOL continue to provide these and other services,

we invite you to join today.

Are You Ready for a Lengthy Power Outage?

by Peter Cleaveland

Recent events should remind us that, while the homes in Mission Bay my not fall down during a large earthquake, that does not mean we have nothing to worry about.

Perhaps the biggest danger would be long-term utility shutdowns. We have become accustomed to loss of electricity, either due to equipment failure, maintenance activities, or another drunk driver knocking down a power pole on Wicks Blvd. We may grumble about it, but power usually comes on again in a few hours, and we continue as before.

But what would you do if the power was out for a week? The food in your refrigerator would go bad within a few days. Medical equipment would not work. Your stove might or might not work, and your heater would not work. Your cell phone would go dead after a few days, but you can always recharge it in you car. No, you don't have to leave your car running all the time your phone is charging; the battery in your car is much larger than the battery in your phone, and can recharge it easily. After a few days you might want to run your car for half an hour just to keep that big battery charged. And don't forget, even if you don't have a portable radio, your car's radio will work.

Of course there would be the darkness. Flashlights would stop working after a while. You might have enough candles, but you would have to use then sparingly to make them last.

When I was growing up on the East Coast we would be hit by hurricanes from time to time, and we kept kerosene lamps ready, with plenty of fuel. While local stores might not carry them, they are readily available online from Amazon, Walmart and other sources, and the fuel (1-K kerosene) is available at Home Depot. But always remember to be very careful with anything that has an open flame.

最近發生大地震的事件提醒我們，雖然 Mission Bay 的房子在大地震中不太可能倒塌，但這並不意味著我們沒有什麼可擔心的。

最大的危險也許是長期停電。 我們已經習慣了斷電，無論是由於設備故障，維修活動，還是另一個醉酒司機撞倒了Wicks大道上的電線桿。 我們可能會對此抱怨不已，但電源通常會在幾個小時後再次接通，我們會像停電之前一樣繼續日常生活。

當然你可使用手電筒在黑暗中照明，但手電筒亦會在使用一段時間後因没電而停止運作。你可能有足夠的蠟燭，但你必須有節制地使用才能使它們持久耐用。

當我在東海岸長大時，我們會不時遭受颶風襲擊，我們會準備好煤油/火水燈，並備有充足的燃料。 雖然附近商店可能不出售煤油燈，但你可以很容易從 Amazon, Walmart 或其他渠道在線購買，而燃料（1-K 煤油）則可在 Home Depot 購買。要切記非常小心使用任何有明火的東西。

Mission Bay Residents Association (MBRA)

It's Time to Recruit More People for the MBRA!

The MBRA has been lucky in getting some great volunteers for the Board. As time as gone on in the last few years, we have taken on many projects: re-write of the MBRA Bylaws, creating a Community Directory, establishing a new non-profit status with the State of California, challenging a rent increase being imposed to cover maintenance of the back wall and more. We have even more new projects in mind for 2023-2024. In order to do this, we need more volunteers.

Here are some of the open projects:

Community Directory: It's time to update the Directory to include new people who have moved into the Park, remove the information for people who have left the Park and include neighbors who have decided they want to start receiving MBRA emails. We'd also like to put together a phone tree for our neighbors who don't look at emails or phone texts. We could use a leader on that part of the project.

Election Committee: MBRA Bylaws, both old and new, stated that there should be elections to the Board every 2 years. We're aiming for elections in November of this year. We need a team of people for the Election committee. The work of the committee will be to plan the election, inform our community about it, set up and direct the election on voting day and process and announce the election results. Anyone in the Park is eligible to be on this Committee except for current MBRA Board members.

Lighting – We would like to start this lighting project soon. A first step will be to research the best product to offer including solar lights so that they won't increase your monthly power bill. We need a couple of volunteers to find the best lighting for our houses and then take on the installation of those lights or find neighbors who can do the installation for neighbors who would like them. Adding more lights to homes in this dimly lit Park will increase the safety here.

Secretary/Treasurer – Brenda Gianni who has been the MBRA Secretary/Treasurer is resigning that position as of the end of June 2023 due to other priorities she has outside of the MBRA Board. She's done a terrific job in that position. She took on both Board positions of Secretary and Treasurer but those two positions can be separated as they have been in the past.

We would like to have people in the Park who have time to work on individual projects and can also take a couple of hours a month to attend Board meetings. There are many talented people in our Park and we need them.

The MBRA Board meets at 10am on the first Saturday of every month. Community Members are encouraged to attend these monthly meetings. Zoom meetings are also provided so you watch from your home. For more information, please email us at MBHOASL@Gmail.com, look online at NextDoor.com/Mission Bay or put a note in our mailbox in the clubhouse big room on the side of the office.

What Is Cinco de Mayo and Why Do We Celebrate It?

from Reader's Digest

Cinco de Mayo is also known as the Anniversary of the Battle of Puebla and Battle of Puebla Day. Some background on the battle: Mexico was attacked by foreign troops because President Benito Juárez defaulted on his payments to European nations after war had depleted the country's ability to pay.

Mexico had endured three wars that put their country in debt: In 1821, they fought for their independence from Spain; from 1846 to 1848 they fought against America; and in 1857 they began their own civil war.

When Mexico defaulted on its loans, France, Britain, and Spain sent troops to demand repayment. But Napoleon III had other plans—to take the country and install a French monarch. Britain and Spain would not get involved with this, but 6,000 French troops went up against 2,000 Mexicans in the town of Puebla on the May 5, 1862. Mexico was victorious.

Engage with Mexican art and culture

To help celebrate Mexican culture and heritage, take some time on Cinco de Mayo to engage with Mexican art and culture, like reading classic Mexican literature and books by Latinx authors. You can also listen to music, watch movies, and admire art created by Mexican artists.

Eat authentic Mexican food

Who doesn't love a good Mexican dish? Celebrate Cinco de Mayo by indulging in authentic Mexican food like tacos, tamales, churros, and enchiladas. Whip them up at home or treat yourself to a meal at a local Mexican restaurant.

Support Mexican businesses

Show your support for the Mexican community by supporting Mexican-owned businesses in your area on Cinco de Mayo. Need some ideas? Try buying dinner at a local Mexican-owned restaurant or purchasing a beautiful piece of art from a Mexican-owned shop.

6 Ways to Celebrate Mother's Day This Year

1. Offer yard and garden services. If you're local to your mom, give her a "gift certificate" for your family's yard and garden services. Help her by laying down mulch. Put the "certificate" in a flower pot with spring-planted bulbs that flower in summer.

2. Decorate your mom's door or give flowers! If you're nearby, you can have fun decorating your mom's front door with streamers, special signs, a wreath, and flowers! If you have kids, get them involved! Mom or grandma will love the surprise.

3. Cook for Mom or set up a brunch date. If your mom is local, drop off a casserole dinner. It's great comfort food, and you can put it all together to drop off on her porch! Or, bake a cake! Traditionally, children in England always baked a cake for Mother's Day. If you like this tradition, here's a truly delicious (and better than boxed) cake

4. Give your mom a long phone call to catch up. Talk to her (or video chat) and make her laugh. Perhaps throw in some good "mom jokes."

5. Watch a movie or show together. If you're all at home in one place, have a movie night, complete with theater treats.

6. Get outside! Go for a stroll in the park, or how about packing mom a picnic? Fresh air always lifts the spirit. Spring is a wonderful time to visit a park and look for all those lovely spring flowers.
How about packing a simple picnic? If mom's living nearby, drop off a picnic basket on her porch! If you're living together, pack a cooler for a beautiful drive through the countryside.

May Checklist

May is the perfect time to prepare your house, inside and out, for warmer days and more time spent outdoors. Whether it's cleaning the grill, maintaining air conditioners, organizing the garage or touching up paint, each item on our checklist this month will help you get your home ready so you can sit back and enjoy the good stuff — barbecues with family and friends, a gentle breeze flowing through the screen door or the simple pleasure of sitting on your porch and watching the world go by.

Clean or replace entry mats. A new doormat outside and a fresh, colorful rug inside the door will make for a cheery entrance. If your mats are still in good shape, shake them out well outdoors and spot clean.

Check safety devices. Check batteries in smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, and check expiration dates on fire extinguishers. Replace as needed.

Clean the washer and dryer. If your washing machine has one, run the cleaning cycle on it; if not, run the washer with a few cups of white vinegar on the hottest setting to clean it. Scrub inside the lid of the washer and remove lint from the dryer hose.

Launder curtains and slipcovers. Toss machine-washable items in the washer and take the rest to the dry cleaner, or hand wash and air dry them. If you don't want to iron curtains, try hanging them up while they're still slightly damp — their own weight should help the wrinkles fall out within a day or two.

Clean the grill. Uncover your grill and give the grates a good scrubbing to get ready for barbecue season.

MAY HEALTH TIPS

Build some muscle

Strength training compliments cardiovascular exercise by toning muscles and burning fat. In addition, proper strength training can improve daily functional movements, decreasing the chance of injury. The American Heart Association recommends getting in two days of moderate to high-intensity strength training each week.

Know your numbers

Maintaining a healthy weight, blood pressure and total cholesterol play a significant role in maintaining a healthy heart. While there are standard guidelines for blood pressure and cholesterol, ideal weight goals are individual to each person. A physician can help determine an appropriate goal weight based on additional factors such as age and height.

Screen for diabetes

Untreated diabetes can lead to heart disease, among many other complications. Diabetes can be easily detected through a simple blood test and managed a variety of ways under the care of a physician.

May Gardening

Composting 101: When to add it to your garden by Cayla Leonard

Composting is one of those things that everyone thinks they should be doing. There are plenty of articles describing all the wonderful things composting does for your garden, and those are true, but how do you actually use it? Whether you need a beginner's guide to composting or are looking for a quick refresher, here are the most important things you need to know when it comes to using your compost.

Can you add compost to your garden after planting?

Yes, you can! Some gardeners actually add a little when planting and continue adding it as the plants grow. Compost provides a lot of vital nutrients for seeds and seedlings, but even a fully grown plant will enjoy the extra boost that comes from compost. There really isn't a bad time to add compost to your garden.

The most popular times are in late fall, so the nutrients have time to fully incorporate into the soil, and early spring, about two weeks before you plant, so that the nutrients are fresh in the soil. There isn't any significant difference in how this impacts plants, so whichever time works better for you is fine.

How do I add compost to my vegetable garden?

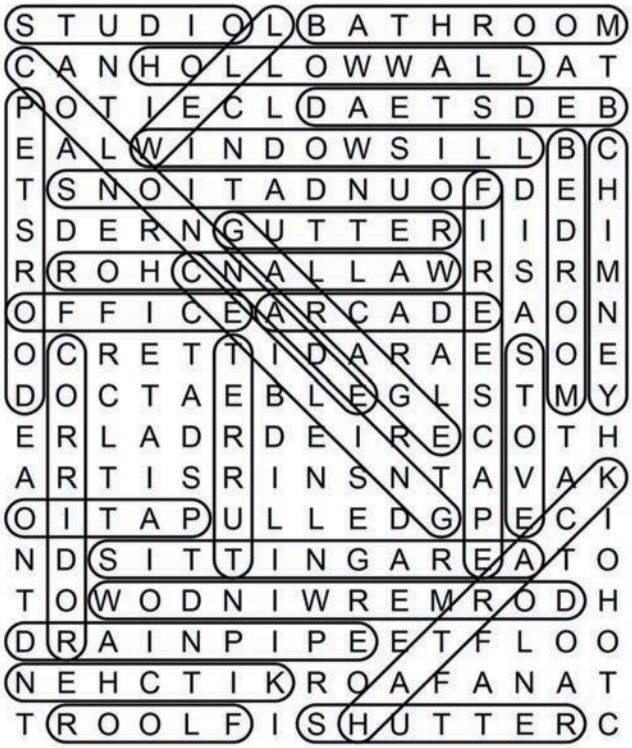

You can add compost directly on top of the garden or work it into the soil. If you haven't planted yet, mixing the compost into the top 6 inches of soil is a good option. This helps the seeds or seedlings you plant access the nutrients quickly and generally improves your soil quality.

However, if you've already planted your vegetables, and they're either seeds or just sprouted, mixing compost into the soil may disturb them if you aren't careful. In this case, putting the compost directly on top of the soil is the better option. If you are adding compost around older plants, you can mix it into the soil, just be careful to do it gently and avoid any roots.

How much compost should I add to my vegetable garden?

This depends on which application method you're using. If you are spreading it on top of your garden, you only want a 1-inch layer of compost. Any thicker and you run the risk of your sprouts not being able to push through the compost.

If you're mixing it into the soil before planting, the layer should be 2 to 3 inches before mixing, and you should mix it into the top 6 inches of soil. This ensures that there is plenty of compost in the soil. If you're mixing it into the soil around mature plants, layer an inch of compost around the plants and mix it gently. It can't be mixed in quite as deeply, due to the roots, so it doesn't need as much. However, other areas of the garden that are not near plants can get 2 to 3 inches, if you haven't added any other compost this year.

Your Rights as a Mobilehome Park Resident

WHAT LAWS ARE UNIQUE TO LIVING IN A MOBILEHOME PARK?

The Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) is the 'landlord-tenant law' for mobilehome parks, found in the California Civil Code. The MRL spells out the rights and obligations of the park owner/management and mobilehome owners or residents relating to such issues as notices of rent increases, rental agreements, resale of a home in the park, or termination of tenancy. State or local government agencies do not enforce these Civil Code provisions. If a dispute arises, the park management or the homeowner must seek enforcement or damages through the courts. (Find the 2023 MRL at https://mobilehomes.senate.ca.gov/publications

What is the Mobilehome Residency Law Protection Program (MRLPP)?

The MRLPP provides assistance in resolving certain disputes between mobilehome homeowners and mobilehome park owners or managers. The MRLPP selects the most severe alleged violations of the Mobilehome Residency Law (MRL) for potential referral to a contracted nonprofit legal service provider if the complaint cannot be resolved between the affected parties. The MRLPP may also refer complaints, or portions of complaints, to the appropriate enforcement agency for investigation or further action.

What types of complaints can be filed with the MRLPP?

The MRL is the "landlord-tenant law" for mobilehome park tenants and mobilehome park owners, and covers rental agreements, park management, termination of tenancy, fees charged by mobilehome park owners, and more.

RECEIVE A CORRECTION LETTER? BE PROACTIVE.

1. Know your rights AND responsibilities -
Most communities have some sort of rules and regulations which govern tenancy and it is important to know those rules to help avoid misunderstandings with management or other home owners

2. Write it down (document everything you can)
The first step whenever you fear a problem is brewing, is to take the time to identify what exactly the problem is – sit at your table and write down as clearly and concisely as possible, exactly what is happening and why this is a potential problem;

If the problem relates to a perceived violation of community rules, take photos to show your situation is no different than many others in the community (e.g., you were given a comply/vacate notice for still having your holiday lights draped around your door when they are supposed to come down by Jan 31, but several neighbors also still have their lights up);

If a problem persists over time, such as with overgrown weeds or lack of proper maintenance, take repeated dated photographs at regular intervals to demonstrate the situation was one of neglect and not merely an isolated incident.

If you are attempting to dialog with the community owner/manager about the problem, be sure to keep careful track of what was said, by whom, and on which dates – keep a diary.

3. File a formal complaint
If an informal approach yields no response, file a formal complaint with the community owner/management, if appropriate. Keep a paper trail of all communications related to the issue.

4. Keep it respectful
Communicating with community owners/managers can often be fraught with tension or fear. Be sure to stay respectful even if you are not being treated well—management is in a position of power and you don't want things to get personal;

Shouting, screaming, profanity and name-calling will accomplish little, it is far better to approach management in an unemotional, business-like manner and accompanied by a good friend who can act as a witness if things do get out of hand and;

Remember, community managers are employees taking orders from either a property management company or directly from the owner. If they don't follow orders they might get fired and the new manager might be even worse! Try to remain on cordial terms with management, especially if they are also residents of your community;

Maintain the moral high ground – it will serve you well in the end.

5. Follow up If you have a conversation with management where certain things are agreed to, follow up with a letter that highlights what you heard and suggest that if you do not hear back from management by a certain date, then you will assume that they too agree with the contents of your letter;

If you agree to do something to rectify the situation, then do it in a timely manner, and contact management to let them know that you have fulfilled your part of the bargain.

Don't give management "ammunition" to use against you by not complying with reasonable rules;

Again, take photographs to document you did what you agreed to do.

6. Reach out to fellow home owners

Is there a home owner association in your community? If so, they are your first line of defense in addressing problems;

7. Seek outside help

Do not wait until the last minute to seek help. Being pro-active can often make a huge difference;

If you can't find help among fellow residents, seek assistance from housing and senior advocacy groups or governmental entities that might be willing to lend support;

If the situation is legal in nature, then contact your local bar association to find out what resources may be available to you – local legal clinics, pro bono attorneys, legal aid, senior services, etc. Try to find attorneys with experience in mobile/manufactured home law

TENANT VS OCCUPANT

What is a tenant? A tenant or tenants signs the rental lease agreement, a contract containing terms that bind them to certain obligations and responsibilities as a renter. The lease agreement is between the landlord and tenant only.

Occupants are not tenants; they are not named on the lease, but you can authorize them to stay on your property with management's knowledge and authorization. Occupants do not have financial responsibility for the lease and have no specific rights under landlord/tenant law. Occupants might be the tenant's partner or significant other, parents, child or any other person not on the lease but living on the property as an occupant of the property.

A problem may arise when there is no clear understanding of the difference. For example, if your lease agreement has your husband on the lease as the Tenant, and the wife is listed as an Occupant, she is considered an occupant. She could help pay rent but is not obligated by the landlord. In the event that the tenant husband becomes incapacitated and is not in a position to write the rent check, or dies, management will not accept the rent payment from the wife. The occupant wife is put on notice and management can pursue eviction proceedings even if she is co-owner of the property.

This is an illustration of the importance of reviewing your Lease Term and ensuring that this doesn't happen to you. It is often overlooked and can have dire consequences.
