Tsunamis — Or Not

In July we told you about the massive tsunami that would be created by a severe earthquake along the Cascadia Subduction Zone along the U.S. and Canadian coast, with catastrophic damage all up and down the coast. But not all tsunamis are created equal. Sometimes they're strictly local. A prime example is the event in the area of Juneau, Alaska on August 10. A landslide triggered by a series of small quakes dropped large amounts of earth and rocks into the Tracy Arm fjord, creating a wave ten or 15 feet high. Fortunately, it was a strictly local event; some trees were scraped off a low-lying island,. But no one was hurt and no real damage was done.

Of course there are underwater landslides in the ocean that can cause big tsunamis, but this wasn't one of them.

The tsunami that was expected after the 8.8 earthquake that hit Russia's Kamchatka peninsula on July 29 didn't amount to much, mostly because there was little vertical movement of the earth, but San Francisco authorities were well-pleased with the performance of the city's alerting system, as it got the word out quickly. It would have been good if the tsunami warning sirens had been working (they were taken off line in 2019, and would be too expensive for the deficit-plagued city to repair), but it turns out they weren't needed in this case.

Meanwhile quakes continue around the world. A 7.3 temblor hit Alaska on July 16, but caused little damage (and no tsunami), and a 6.0 quake in Afghanistan killed at least 800 people and injured 2500 more. Let's hear it for earthquake building codes.

Great California ShakeOut
This column is being written before the annual Great California ShakeOut on October 16. At this point we can just hope that things went well, with good participation by everyone. We'll give you a report next month.

海啸——或不是

今年七月，我们曾告诉过大家，如果美国和加拿大海岸附近的喀斯喀迪亚俯冲带发生强烈地震，将会引发一场巨大的海啸，给沿岸地区带来灾难性的破坏。

但并非所有海啸都一样。有时候，它们只是局部性的。一个典型的例子就是 8 月 10 日在阿拉斯加朱诺地区发生的事件。一系列小地震引发了山体滑坡，大量泥土和岩石滑入特雷西湾峡湾，掀起了十到十五英尺高的浪。幸运的是，这是一场纯粹的局部事件；虽然有一些低洼岛屿上的树木被冲刷掉了，但没有人受伤，也没有造成实际破坏。

当然，海底山体滑坡也可能引发巨大的海啸，但这次并不是那种情况。

7 月 29 日俄罗斯堪察加半岛发生 8.8 级地震后，人们原本预期会有海啸，但最终并没有什么大动作，主要原因是地壳的垂直位移很小。不过，旧金山当局对城市的警报系统表现感到非常满意，因为它能快速发布警报。要是海啸警报器还在工作就更好了（警报器在 2019 年被停用，而对财政赤字严重的城市来说，维修成本过高），但结果证明这次根本不需要。

与此同时，全球地震仍在持续。7 月 16 日阿拉斯加发生了 7.3 级地震，但几乎没有造成破坏（也没有海啸）；而在阿富汗发生的 6.0 级地震则造成至少 800 人死亡、2500 人受伤。让我们为地震建筑规范鼓掌吧。

大加州地震演练
本文写于 10 月 16 日一年一度的“大加州地震演练”之前。此刻我们只能希望演练一切顺利，大家积极参与。我们将在下个月给大家带来后续报道。

HOW THE SPRAWLING ONE BIG BEAUTIFUL BILL MAY IMPACT YOU

From AARP

The nearly 900-page One Big Beautiful Bill signed by President Donald Trump in July will affect the lives of older Americans in many ways, say AARP policy experts and others.

Here's a look at key provisions.

> Taxes. The act makes permanent the reduced income tax rates enacted during Trump's first term. Another key provision, backed by AARP, provides a $6,000 bonus deduction for older adults (see box below).

> Affordable Care Act (ACA) plans. The legislation imposes new documentation requirements on the roughly 5.5 million adults ages 55 to 64 who have an ACA plan. Those changes "will add more red tape for enrollees and further drive down coverage," AARP Chief Advocacy and Engagement Officer Nancy LeaMond said in a letter to Senate leaders.

> Medicaid eligibility. The act sets new work requirements that can disqualify a person from enrolling in Medicaid and creates additional red tape to show compliance. Medicaid-eligible recipients ages 19 to 64 who apply for coverage or receive coverage through the ACA would have to work at least 80 hours per month or fulfill similar criteria. The AARP Public Policy Institute found that 9.2 million Medicaid recipients ages 50 to 64 would face these requirements.

> Food assistance. In 2023 more than 11 million people age 50 and older received food aid through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), previously known as food stamps. Starting in October 2027, most states will have to pay 5 to 15 percent of the cost of the SNAP benefits their residents receive. The new legislation also raises the age limit for work requirements to be eligible for SNAP benefits from 55 to 64. That means many people up to age 64 will be required to work at least 20 hours per week to receive benefits for more than three months in three years.

NEW TAX RELIEF FOR OLDER AMERICANS

Millions of taxpayers 65 and older get a break for tax years 2025 through 2028. Here's what you need to know about the new deduction.

> Who is eligible? You must be at least 65 years old by the end of the tax year and have a modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) of less than $175,000. If you're married and filing a joint return, your spouse can also claim the deduction if they're 65 or older and your combined MAGI is less than $250,000.

> How much is it? $6,000 per eligible taxpayer. For married couples filing jointly, it's $12,000 if both spouses are 65 or older. The deduction is cut by 6 percent for MAGI over $75,000 ($150,000 for a couple) and can't be claimed at all if it's more than $175,000 ($250,000 for a couple).

> Does it replace the existing extra standard deduction for people 65 and older? No. The new deduction is in addition to the existing break.

> What if Im itemizing? You can claim the new deduction regardless of whether you itemize your taxes or claim just the standard deduction.

> Does this mean Social Security benefits are no longer taxed? No. The new law contains no provision ending taxation of Social Security benefits or changing how those taxes are calculated.

Social Security, Medicare Face Early Shortfalls

The trust funds that Social Security and Medicare beneficiaries count on for financial support and health will run out of money sooner than projected unless lawmakers act, according to the 2025 annual trustee reports.

> The trusts that fund Social Security will run out of money by 2034, a year earlier than estimated in last year's report. If the trust funds are depleted, beneficiaries will get only 81 cents for every dollar now received.

> The trust fund that pays for Medicare Part A, which covers inpatient hospital care, will be depleted by 2033, three years earlier than projected in 2024, unless the law is changed. If it isn't, the Hospital Insurance Trust Fund's reserves will be able to pay 89 percent of scheduled benefits, trustees said.

Lifestyle Changes Can Help Ward Off Dementia from AARP

Exercising, eating right and staying socially engaged can improve thinking and memory in people at risk for dementia, a major new study confirms.

The results of that study were released in late July at the annual Alzheimer's Association International Conference in Toronto.

For the study, 2,111 volunteers with an average age of 68 were randomly assigned to adopt either an intensive, highly structured lifestyle-change program or a self-guided program with less support. Those who followed the more intensive regimen appear to have slowed cognitive decline.

Behavioral changes included increasing physical exercise, adopting a healthy diet, maintaining social ties, engaging in online "brain training" sessions and attending regular checkups to monitor cardiovascular health.

The findings were published in the medical journal JAMA. The study is part of a $150 million research effort funded by the Alzheimer's Association and the National Institute on Aging.
